To ensure the safety of those we support during COVID, services are currently conducted in person, virtually or by phone.

Support Groups

Grief Journey for Adults

This six-week group, facilitated by a professional grief counselor, is offered throughout the year and meets for two hours once a week.

Participants learn that the many physical and emotional reactions they experience in grief are normal.

The healing begins as members share stories and coping strategies with others who have also experienced loss.

This six-week group is currently being facilitated virtually but is expected to change to an in-person group in the very near future.

This group is available at no cost to both Hospice bereaved and general community members. Please call for more information.
